YANKS CRUSH GERMAN RIVER DEFENSES

Allies Gain Mastery of Air Over Solomons

RABAU RAID WRECKS JAPS' DEFENSE PLANS

MacArthur Strikes Greatest Blow Of War Against Vital Base

123 WARSHIPS DAMAGED

Total Of 177 Nip Planes Blasted By Bombs And Aerial Cannon

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN
THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC,
Oct. 14 — Japanese air and sea
strength at the enemy's great Southwest Pacific base of Rabaul
on New Britain island was crushed
today as a result of the most devastating aerial bombardment yet
launched by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Hundreds of four-motored Liber-
ator bombers and twin-engined
Mitchells escorted by P-38 fighters
destroyed or damaged 177 Jap
planes and sank, destroyed or damaged 123 Japanese war vessels.
The Allied planes expended 350
tons of bombs and 250,000 rounds
of ammunition during the wither-
ing two-hour assault.

Allies Now Masters

"This operation... gives us
definite mastery in the air over the Solomons sea and adjacent waters,
and thereby threatens the enemy's
whole perimeter of defense," Gen.
MacArthur said.

Approximately 60 percent of Japan's air strength at Rabaul was destroyed when the Allied fliers
smashed 100 enemy craft on the ground at Vunakana, Roppon and Tobera airdromes, damaged 51
other grounded craft and knocked 26 Jap planes out of the sky in gripping air battles.

The airdrome assaults were carried out by Mitchells which cri-pled the enemy's air defenses before the Liberators swept in over the harbor to strike at the Jap shipping and harbor installations.

Drop Big Bombs

The heavy B-24 bombers hurled 1,000-pound bombs into the attack on the shipping and sank or destroyed three destroyers, two merchant ships of 5,800 tons, one of 7,000 tons and 43 sea going cargo vessels ranging from 100 to 500 tons. The Liberators also hit and severely damaged a submarine and
its 5,000-ton tender, a 6,800-ton
destroyer tender and a 7,000-ton
cargo ship.

The cost to the Allied Fifth Air
Force under command of Lieut.
Gen. George C. Kenney was five planes missing and an undisclosed number of others damaged.

Rabaul, on the northeast tip of
New Guinea, was turned into a raging inferno by the gigantic assault which caught the Nipponese
by surprise.

Although the total was not disclosed, headquarters revealed that every available plane was employed in the operation carried out at mid-day.

Once the Jap air strength was knocked out through the bombard-

Where Portuguese Give Allies Sea And Air Bases

THIS fine air view shows Horta, chief port of the Azores, strategically placed Atlantic archipelago on which Portugal has granted naval and air base facilities to the United States and Great Britain. Allied ships immediately took up stations there.

MILK SUBSIDY TO AID FARMERS

35 Cents A Hundred To Be Paid When Certified
By Local AAA

Pickaway county farmers who sell milk to dealers will receive a subsidy of 35 cents a hundred-
weight, effective immediately, under a government aid program.

The dairy subsidy prices to be paid central Ohio farmers were announced by Elmer F. Kruse,
Ohio AAA and War Board chairman, in a letter to John G. Boggs, Pickaway county AAA chairman.

The 35-cent price is five cents
higher than the subsidy fixed for 16 northwestern Ohio counties.
Butterfat payments will be four
cents a pound throughout Ohio.

To obtain payments, farmers
must submit to county AAA offices receipts they received from
dealers showing the amount of
milk delivered during the month.
AAA officials will certify the
amount due producers.

The subsidy program continues
for the last three months of the year, being effective as of October 1 and ending the last day
of December. If congress wishes
it may extend the subsidy plan as long as it likes.

The subsidy program was
launched by the War Food Administration to counterbalance higher
production costs without sending
the consumer prices for milk and
dairy products any higher.

Kruse estimated that Ohio will return 5,000,000,000 pounds of

SOLDIER TAKES CAR AND $1,700; STRIKES OWNER

A Buick sedan which carried
$1,700 hidden in a tool box in the
car's trunk was the object of a
search Thursday by police and
state highway patrolmen. The car
was stolen at midnight Wednesday
from its parking place in front of Stone's Grill, South Court street.
C. J. Sanders, Mount Sterling,
owner of the automobile, told police that a soldier who used the name of Lee Campfield, had asked him for a ride to Mount Sterling, but Sanders said he had not intended to go home immediately so
had refused. Police were told that
the soldier, described as six feet
three inches tall and weighing 225
pounds, had struck Sanders and
had tried to keep him in the car
by sitting on him. However, Sanders made his escape. The car,
carrying license plates number
Y-8523, was driven west on Route 22.

Sanders told police that he had carried so much money because in
his hay buying and hay bailing
business he paid for his hay and
paid his workmen in cash. In addition to the money the car carried
gallons of gasoline in the car's
tank and more ration coupons with
which to buy more gasoline, the Mount Sterling man told police.

Report of the theft was put on
the state highway patrol radio,
but no trace has been found of the
car or the soldier.

How Yankees Poured Death, Destruction On Japs Told By Witness

EDITOR'S NOTE: International News Service staff correspondent
staged a devastating smash raid on the Jap base at Rabaul, describes
in this graphic eye-witness report, his "unforgettable, crimson impression" of the assault.)

ABOARD AN AMERICAN MITCHELL BOMBER ENROUTE
FROM RABAU, Oct. 12—(Delayed)—Rabaul, key Japanese bombardment base in the southwest Pacific, was devastated today by a mighty Allied air assault, rivaling the enemy's Pearl Harbor raid.

The smoking, flaming ruins of the bombardment base seared an unforgettable, crimson impression into our minds as we hurtled our way off the target.

Caught apparently with only the briefest warning, the Rapopo air-
drome—nesting ground for Nippon's Western Pacific heavy aircraft
strength—learned in all its devastating intensity the power of an American warplane attack.

Even as our forward guns began cutting a swath across Rapopo,
other strafing Mitchell bombers could be seen racing against Vunakanau airdrome. Seconds later, the scene was etched with billowing
clouds of black smoke and towers
of fires.

BEER INDUSTRY NOW MAY LOSE USE OF TRUCKS

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 — Another dark and ominous cloud hovered over the brewing industry today.

John C. Petritz of the bureau of motor carriers, Interstate Commerce Commission, told the National Beer Wholesalers' Association convention that due to the growing shortage of trucks, the brewing industry might be required to sell its equipment at a fair price.

At a previous session a spokesman for the industry predicted
there would be a real shortage of beer for the next six months due to the amount allocated to the military forces.

Still another cause for gloom
was the warning that since 1933
the "drys" have won 7,700 elections while the "wets" have triumphed only 4,300 times.

SOLDIER GIFTS SHOWER DOWN ON POSTOFFICE

Circleville postoffice is a beehive
of activity, with wives, mothers
and friends of Army personnel
serving overseas forming a steady
procession into the office.

Friday, October 15, is the final
date for overseas Christmas gifts
to be put into the mail without a request from the soldier's commanding officer.

Deadline for Navy and Marine
personnel overseas is November 1,
but already many gifts have been
put into the mail for men in these
branches of service.

Practically every postoffice in
the nation was being swamped
Thursday by kin and friends of
soldiers who are doing their best
to beat the Friday deadline.

KESSELING IN BERLIN
STOCKHOLM, Oct. 14—Swiss reports reaching Sweden said today that Field Marshal General Albert Kesselring, Nazi military commander in Italy, had been recalled to Berlin.

Dean Reports Total Of 127
Volunteers With 300
Needed On List

Urgent appeal for volunteer
blood donors was voiced Thursday by the Pickaway county Red Cross. With the visit of the Franklin county mobile blood
bank unit scheduled next Monday
and Tuesday, the Red Cross has
only 127 volunteers listed with a total of 300 needed for the two days.

"We must have volunteers immediately if we are to keep up our
fine record," Hal Dean, chairman
of the Red Cross blood bank project, declared Thursday.

Appearing before the Rotary
club at noon, Dean urged Rotarians to sign up to give their blood.
"Persons who are able to do so
and who refuse to give a pint of
their blood are merely kicking a
wounded soldier or sailor in the face," Dean admonished the club
men.

Mrs. A. Hulse Hays, whose
phone number is 258, is in charge
of registration. Persons wishing
to give their blood to help save lives of men who are fighting for America should telephone Mrs.
Hays for a registration and a time
assignment. Persons instructed to report at any certain hour are urged to be there at that precise
time.

What methods will be used to
boost the number of persons willing to give their blood have not
been worked out by the Red Cross
beyond the actual appeal for volunteers. Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning to contact men
working in the city's factories to try to boost the number of volunteers.

Ninety-three Pickaway countians have donated blood all three

LONDON, Oct. 14—Bitter fighting continued to rage today in
northern and western Yugoslavia
between German military units
and partisan forces.

German forces which attempted to reach Tuzla were reported by headquarters of the Yugoslav National Army of Liberation to have been beaten back. The Nazis
in this sector are withdrawing
toward Doboj, a commune said.

In the Zagreb district 300 Germans and Croat quislings were reported while 355 were said to have been taken prisoner.

Headquarters said that Italian
troops are being incorporated
rapidly into the Yugoslav national army. The Venezia division in Montenegro, the Garibaldi division
in Slovenia and an Italian battalion near Split in Dalmatia now
have been fully organized and are fighting with the Yugoslavs, it
was said.

The principal fighting continues
along the main railway lines in Dalmatia, Slovenia and Istria.

ITALIANS GIRD FOR REAL DRIVE AGAINST HUNS

Land, Sea And Air Forces
Being Organized To

BADOGGIO CONFIDENT

Marshal In High Spirits
In Anticipation Of
Allied Victory

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS
IN ITALY, Oct. 14 — Strong Italian land, sea and air forces today
are being organized and prepared
for active participation in the fight to drive the Germans from Italian soil.

This was revealed by Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio at his secret headquarters on the Italian
mainland after he had announced
Italy's formal declaration of war
on Germany.

"Even before our declaration of war I had offered Italian troops
to fight against the Germans,"
said the marshal in an interview
with correspondents.

"Italians already have fought
in Corsica," he added. "They are fighting in the Balkans."

Already Fighting

"We have news also that they
are fighting in Italy," Badoglio held his news conference after a formal meeting at
which he read to representatives
of American and British official
missions at his headquarters his
proclamation announcing the war
declaration by his government in behalf of King Victor Emmanuel.

The marshal was in high spirits
as he told of how his forces will
be hurled into the conflict against Italy's erstwhile German ally because the Nazis have committed acts of war and terror against Italians.

"All Italians—not only the
heads of our government—share
our desire to drive out the Germans, as shown by the fact that they are already fighting," Badog-
lio said.

In cooperation with Gen.
Dwight D. Eisenhower, he continued, "strong Italian forces, some of which are in southern Italy and

FLYNN DISPUTES PARENTHOOD OF BLONDE'S CHILD

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—Errol
Flynn, swashbuckling figure both
off and on the screen, hurried
home from a motion picture location today to face paternity
charges filed against him by curly-haired Shirley Evans
Hassau, 21-year-old blonde.

The preview of an impending
court drama was still without a definite plot.

But at least the blue-eyed Mrs.
Hassau, who was educated in two
San Francisco convents, spoke
the first lines of dialogue, in a legal sort of way.

She accused the debonair film
actor of being the father of her daughter, Marilyn Evans Flynn,
born November 13, 1940. Her complaint filed in superior court seeks
sonal medical care; $1,750 a
month for the child's support;
$2,000 court costs and $10,000 attorney fees.

Neither Mrs. Hassau—wife of
an orchestra singer who recently
was given a medical discharge
from the Navy—nor Flynn, was
available for comment.

Before the ink on the complaint
was dry, however, the actor's attorney, Robert E. Ford, issued a public statement vehemently
denying that Flynn could be the
child's father.

GREEN REELECTED

BOSTON, Oct. 14—William
Green, president of the AFL, was
reelected for another year today at
the 63rd annual convention of the federation. He was unopposed.

Smiling Warrior

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR presents a broad and confident smile
as he poses for his latest picture, taken while inspecting United States troops carrying out large scale maneuvers "somewhere" in eastern Australia.

JAPS' BACK AT RABAU BROKEN

Was Crushing, Decisive

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN
THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC,
Oct. 14—Gen. Douglas MacArthur
believes today that Allied airmen
broke the back of the Japanese
base at Rabaul, New Britain island.

"It was a crushing and decisive defeat for the enemy at a most
vital point, and once more surprise was the predominant factor,"
said the Allied supreme commander after studying results of the devastating blow against the principal Nip base in the Southwest
Pacific.

"Rabaul," he continued, "has
been the focus and very hub of
the enemy's main advanced air
effort. I think we've broken its back."

The deeply religious General
then added:
"Almighty God has again blessed our arms."

Thorough destruction of the
base was the aim of MacArthur
at the start of the raid. Before
American army flyers set out for
New Britain Gen. MacArthur, in
a dramatic meeting with correspondents, said:

"I am going to try and smash Rabaul by air."

He said he believed the attack
was the most important single
effort he had yet attempted.

"If the good Lord stays with
us, we should get some extraordinary results."

"I have mustered every available plane for the attack."

1236 AMERICANS ENROUTE HOME ON GRIPSHOLM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Some
1,236 American citizens today are enroute to the United States
aboard the steamer Gripsholm
following their release from Japanese internment camps.

Names of the Americans released in an exchange of prisoners
between the U. S. and Japan
through the American Red Cross
and neutral Swiss authorities,
were made public by the State department.

The group includes a large number of missionaries, educators, government service employees and
American news correspondents.
The exchange was made at Mor-
mugao, principal port of the territory of Goa, Portuguese India.

Strategic Bridgeheads On

RUSSIANS IN GOMEL

Breakthrough Of Main Hun Line Now Regarded As Highly Probable

BULLETIN
MOSCOW, Oct. 14—Soviet troops today smashed their way into Gomel, great Nazi garrison in White Russia, inflicting heavy casualties on the German defenders.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The Navy announced today that 10
Japanese bombers raided American positions on Attu island in the Aleutians yesterday. The assault did no damage.

The Navy also reported that the American destroyers Buck
and Bristol were sunk in the Mediterranean war theatre as the result of underwater explosions.
There was no mention of the loss of personnel.

BULLETIN
LONDON, Oct. 14—American heavy bombers, supported by Thunderbolt fighters, attacked targets in central Germany by daylight today.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Secretary of War Stimson asserted
today that Italy's declaration of war on Germany "may have an important bearing on the progress of the war."

By International News Service
Troops of the American Fifth
Army crossed the raging Volturno
river and firmly established a
number of strategic bridgeheads
on the north shore of that stream
today in a renewed offensive
which carried them still further
along the vital road to Rome.

The advance was ordered by
Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark after
the Americans had beaten back a desperate German counter-stroke
which attempted to break up the
newest Allied push even before it could be started. Simultaneously,
the British Eighth Army lashed
out in the eastern sector to occupy at least two strategic towns
in a thrust which hurled the enemy
back as much as five miles.

In battering their way across the Volturno, the Americans struck
with such force that a break-
through of the German's main
line positions now is regarded by
many observers as highly probable. Troops of the right flank
hammered forward in this push
to occupy Guardia, 10 miles northwest of Benevento.

Eighth Advances

The British Eighth army storm-
ed into Gugliese, a few miles
southwest of Termoli and some 45
miles above the big Foggia airfield network. The nearby village
of Gildone also was occupied.

Guardia, which is 10 miles northwest of Benevento by direct route
or about 15 miles by road, lies
on an important east-west highway which connects two major
links leading to the north.

The American and British
troops smashed their way across
the rain-swollen stream despite
formidable Nazi defenses to launch
an assault northward in the direction of Rome.

The crossing was achieved after a favorable turn in the weather
which enabled Allied heavy equip-

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 14—The Norwegian royal palace at Skaugsioner for Norway, was destroyed by fire today.

Norwegian patriots were be-

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN
THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC,
Oct. 14 — Japanese air and sea

Southwest Pacific base of Rabaul
on New Britain island was crushed
today as a result of the most devastating aerial bombardment yet
launched by Gen. Douglas MacAr-

Hundreds of four-motored Liber-
ator bombers and twin-engined
Mitchells escorted by P-38 fighters
destroyed or damaged 177 Jap
planes and sank, destroyed or damaged 123 Nipponese war vessels.
The Allied planes expended 350
tons of bombs and 250,000 rounds
of ammunition during the wither-
ing two-hour assault.

"This operation . . . gives us
definite mastery in the air over the Solomons sea and adjacent waters,
and thereby threatens the enemy's
whole perimeter of defense," Gen.
MacArthur said.
Approximately 60 percent of Japan's air strength at Rabaul was
smashed 100 enemy craft on the ground at Vunakanau, Roppon and Tobara airdromes, damaged 51
other grounded craft and knocked 26 Jap planes out of the sky in grievous air battles.

The airdrome assaults were car-

cargo ship.

The cost to the Allied Fifth Air
Force under command of Lieut.
Gen. George C. Kenney was five

number of others damaged.

Rabaul, on the northeast tip of
New Guinea, was turned into a

By Local AAA

Pickaway county farmers who
subsidy of 35 cents a hundred-
weight, effective immediately, under a government aid program.

announced by Elmer F. Kruse,
Ohio AAA and War Board chair-
man, in a letter to John G. Boggs,
Pickaway county AAA chairman.
The 35-cent price is five cents
higher than the subsidy fixed for 16 northwestern Ohio counties.
Butterfat payments will be four
cents a pound throughout Ohio.

To obtain payments, farmers
must submit to county AAA offices receipts they received from
dealers showing the amount of
milk delivered during the month.
AAA officials will certify the
amount due producers.

The subsidy program continues
only for the last three months of
the year, being effective as of October 1 and ending the last day
of December. If congress wishes
long as it likes.

launched by the War Food Administration to counterbalance higher
production costs without sending
dairy products any higher.

Kruse estimated that Ohio will turn out 5,000,000,000 pounds of

SOLDIER TAKES CAR AND $1,700; STRIKES OWNER

$1,700 hidden in a tool box in the
car's trunk was the object of a
search Thursday by police and
state highway patrolmen. The car
was stolen at midnight Wednesday
from its parking place in front of Stone's Grill, South Court street.
C. J. Sanders, Mount Sterling,
owner of the automobile, told police
that a soldier who used the name of Lee Campfield, had asked him for a ride to Mount Sterling, but Sanders said he had not intended to go home immediately so
had refused. Police were told that
the soldier, described as six feet
three inches tall and weighing 225
pounds, had struck Sanders and
had tried to keep him in the car
by sitting on him. However, Sanders made his escape. The car,
carrying license plates number
22.

Sanders told police that he had
carried so much money because in
his hay buying and hay bailing
business he paid for his hay and
paid his workmen in cash. In addition to the money the car carried
gallons of gasoline in the car's
Mount Sterling man told police.
Report of the theft was put on
the state highway patrol radio,
but no trace has been found of the

(EDITOR'S NOTE: International News Service staff correspondent
staged a devastating smash raid on the Jap base at Rabaul, describes
in this graphic eye-witness report, his "unforgettable, crimson impression" of the assault.)

ABOARD AN AMERICAN MITCHELL BOMBER ENROUTE
FROM RABAU, Oct. 12—(Delayed)—Rabaul, key Japanese bombardment base in the southwest Pacific, was devastated today by a mighty Allied air assault, rivaling the enemy's Pearl Harbor raid.

The smoking, flaming ruins of the bombardment base seared an unforgettable, crimson impression into our minds as we hurtled our way
off the target.

Caught apparently with only the briefest warning, the Rapopo air-
drome—nesting ground for Nippon's Western Pacific heavy aircraft
strength—learned in all its devastating intensity the power of an American warplane attack.

Even as our forward guns began cutting a swath across Rapopo,
other strafing Mitchell bombers could be seen racing against Vunaka-
nau airdrome. Seconds later, the
scene was etched with billowing
clouds of black smoke and towers
of fires.

To coin a word, Rabaul was "Vewakized." The impossible has been done again—and with accomplishment of the impossible,
months of planning and preparations and hours of tense anticipation have come to an end.

We needed a tactical surprise if we were to gain the victory we all were so eager for today—and tactical surprise was ours.

This correspondent rode with
Maj. John (Jock) Henebery of Plainfield Hills, Ill., veteran of 80
combat missions against the foe;
Co-Pilot Lieut. Edward Murphy of Oak Park, Ill., and Navigator
Lieut. Abraham Soffer of Brandford, Conn. Our deadly bomber was appropriately named "Notre Dame De Victoire"—Our Lady of Victory.

In formations spread thousands of yards across the skies with Lockheed Lightnings keeping an eternal, welcome vigilance as far as the eye could see, we roared
from our advanced striking base just before dawn this morning. For hundreds of miles, never climbing
more than 60 feet above the waterline and maintaining absolutely unbroken radio silence, we sped toward the target.

We all realized the momentous important occasion — it was the first time in the history of the Pacific warfare that escorted assault and bombardment units had been sent to penetrate the Japs' fortress-like ack-ack defenses around Rabaul.

By midmorning we were over the

Circleville postoffice is a beehive
of activity, with wives, mothers
and friends of Army personnel
serving overseas forming a steady
procession into the office.

Friday, October 15, is the final
date for overseas Christmas gifts
to be put into the mail without a
request from the soldier's commanding officer.

Deadline for Navy and Marine
personnel overseas is November 1,
but already many gifts have been
put into the mail for men in these
branches of service.

Practically every postoffice in
the nation was being swamped
Thursday by kin and friends of
soldiers who are doing their best
to beat the Friday deadline.

Young Diltz, a gunner, was
awarded the Army Air Medal
several months ago after participating in an important raid on the St. Nazaire submarine docks. The Army reported Thursday that he
has been given the oak leaf cluster to add to his air medal.

Dean Reports Total Of 127
Volunteers With 300
Needed On List

Urgent appeal for volunteer
blood donors was voiced Thursday by the Pickaway county Red Cross. With the visit of the Franklin county mobile blood
bank unit scheduled next Monday
and Tuesday, the Red Cross has
only 127 volunteers listed with a
days.

"We must have volunteers immediately if we are to keep up our
fine record," Hal Dean, chairman
of the Red Cross blood bank project, declared Thursday.

Appearing before the Rotary
club at noon, Dean urged Rotar-
ians to sign up to give their blood.
"Persons who are able to do so
their blood are merely kicking a
wounded soldier or sailor in the
face," Dean admonished the club
men.

Mrs. A. Hulse Hays, whose
phone number is 258, is in charge
of registration. Persons wishing
to give their blood to help save
lives of men who are fighting for America should telephone Mrs.
Hays for a registration and a time
assignment. Persons instructed to
report at any certain hour are
urged to be there at that precise
time.

What methods will be used to
boost the number of persons will-
been worked out by the Red Cross
beyond the actual appeal for volunteers. Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning to contact men
working in the city's factories to
try to boost the number of volunteers.

Ninety-three Pickaway counties have donated blood all three

LONDON, Oct. 14—Bitter fight-
ing continued to rage today in
northern and western Yugoslavia
between German military units
and partisan forces.

German forces which attempted to reach Tuzla were reported by headquarters of the Yugoslav National Army of Liberation to
have been beaten back. The Nazis
in this sector are withdrawing
toward Doboj, a commune said.

In the Zagreb district 300 Germans and Croat Quislings were reported while 355 were said to have been taken prisoner.

Headquarters said that Italian
troops are being incorporated
rapidly into the Yugoslav national
army. The Venezia division in Montenegro, the Garibaldi division
in Slovenia and an Italian battalion near Split in Dalmatia now
have been fully organized and are fighting with the Yugoslavs, it
was said.

The principal fighting continues
along the main railway lines in Dalmatia, Slovenia and Istria.

ORRIN DILTZ AGAIN HONORED FOR WAR ROLE

Staff Sergeant Orrin Diltz of Circleville has been honored again
by the War department for his work with the Eighth Air Force stationed in England.

Young Diltz, a gunner, was
awarded the Army Air Medal
several months ago after participating in an important raid on the St. Nazaire submarine docks. The Army reported Thursday that he

ITALIANS GIRD FOR REAL DRIVE AGAINST HUNS

Land, Sea And Air Forces

BADOGGIO CONFIDENT

In Anticipation Of
Allied Victory

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS
IN ITALY, Oct. 14 — Strong Italian land, sea and air forces today
are being organized and prepared
for active participation in the
Italy.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio at his
secret headquarters on the Italian
mainland after he had announced
Italy's formal declaration of war
on Germany.

"Even before our declaration of war I had offered Italian troops to fight against the Germans,"
said the marshal in an interview
with correspondents.

"Italians already have fought
in Corsica," he added. "They are
fighting in the Balkans."

Already Fighting
"We have news also that they
are fighting in Italy."

ference after a formal meeting at
which he read to representatives
missions at his headquarters his
proclamation announcing the war
declaration by his government in
behalf of King Victor Emmanuel.

The marshal was in high spirits
as he told of how his forces will
be hurled into the conflict against Italy's erstwhile German ally be-
cause the Nazis have committed
Italians.

"All Italians — not only the
heads of our government — share
our desire to drive out the Germans, as shown by the fact that they are already fighting," Badog-
lio said.

"In cooperation with Gen.
Dwight D. Eisenhower," he continued, "strong Italian forces, some

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—Errol
Flynn, swashbuckling figure both
off and on the screen, hurried
home from a motion picture location today to face paternity
charges filed against him by curly-haired Shirley Evans
Hassau, 21-year-old blonde.

The preview of an impending
court drama was still without a
definite plot.

But at least the blue-eyed Mrs.
Hassau, who was educated in two
San Francisco convents, spoke
the first lines of dialogue, in a
legal sort of way.

She accused the debonair film
daughter, Marylyn Evans Flynn,
born November 13, 1940. Her complaint filed in superior court seeks
sonal medical care; $1,750 a
month for the child's support;
$2,000 court costs and $10,000 attorney fees.

Neither Mrs. Hassau — wife of
an orchestra singer who recently
was given a medical discharge
from the Navy — nor Flynn, was
available for comment.

Before the ink on the complaint
was dry, however, the actor's attorney, Robert E. Ford, issued a
public statement vehemently
denying that Flynn could be the
child's father.

BOSTON, Oct. 14—William
Green, president of the AFL, was
reelected for another year today at
the 63rd annual convention of the federation. He was unopposed.

JAPS' BACK AT RABAU BROKEN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN
THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC,
Oct. 14—Gen. Douglas MacArthur
believes today that Allied airmen
broke the back of the Japanese
base at Rabaul, New Britain is-
land.

"It was a crushing and decisive
defeat for the enemy at a most
vital point, and once more surprise was the predominant factor,"
said the Allied supreme commander after studying results of the devastating blow against the prin-
Pacific.

"Rabaul," he continued, "has
been the focus and very hub of
the enemy's main advanced air
back."

The deeply religious General
then added:

"Almighty God has again blessed our arms."

Thorough destruction of the
base was the aim of MacArthur
at the start of the raid. Before
New Britain Gen. MacArthur, in
a dramatic meeting with correspondents, said:

"I am going to try and smash
Rabaul by air."

He said he believed the attack
was the most important single
effort he had yet attempted.

"If the good Lord stays with
us, we should get some extraordinary results."

"I have mustered every available plane for the attack."

1236 AMERICANS ENROUTE HOME ON GRIPSHOLM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Some
1,236 American citizens today are
enroute to the United States
aboard the steamer Gripsholm
following their release from Japanese internment camps.

Names of the Americans released in an exchange of prisoners
through the American Red Cross
and neutral Swiss authorities,
were made public by the State department.

The group includes a large number of missionaries, educators, government service employees and
American news correspondents.
The exchange was made at Mor-
mugao, principal port of the territory of Goa, Portuguese India.

today that Italy's declaration of
war on Germany "may have an
important bearing on the pro-

By International News Service

Troops of the American Fifth
Army crossed the raging Voltorno
river and firmly established a
number of strategic bridgeheads
on the north shore of that stream
which carried them still further
along the vital road to Rome.

Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark after
the Americans had beaten back a
desperate German counter-stroke
which attempted to break up the
newest Allied push even before it
could be started. Simultaneously,
the British Eighth Army lashed
out in the eastern sector to occupy at least two strategic towns
in a thrust which hurled the enemy
back as much as five miles.

In battering their way across the Voltorno, the Americans struck
with such force that a break-
through of the German's main
line positions now is regarded by
many observers as highly probable. Troops of the right flank
hammered forward in this push
to occupy Guardia, 10 miles northwest of Benevento.

Eighth Advances
The British Eighth army storm-
ed into Gugliese, a few miles
southwest of Termoli and some 45
miles above the big Foglia air-
field network. The nearby village
of Gildone also was occupied.

Guardia, which is 10 miles north-
west of Benevento by direct route
or about 15 miles by road, lies
on an important east-west high-
way which connects two major
links leading to the north.

troops smashed their way across
the rain-swollen stream despite

Norwegian royal palace at Skausary for Norway, was destroyed by fire today.

now is in London. Terboven con-

ment of the three airdromes, other Allied squadrons swept in over the base to plaster raid installations, fuel and ammunition dumps and other installations.

Guns Silenced

Numerous anti-aircraft positions were silenced and a motor transport pool was wrecked. Two wharves and a warehouse were destroyed along with other waterfront installations which were set ablaze.

Gen. MacArthur pointed out that the operation against Rabaul was the second phase of a campaign to secure sea mastery over the Solomons sea. The initial strike, was made when the Jap air strength at Wewak, New Guinea, was wiped out in similar manner. Wewak constituted the right wing of Tojo's air command.

"This time," said Gen. MacArthur's communique, "our objective was his left wing at Rabaul. The division of his air forces into two great groups based upon Wewak and Rabaul has made it possible to use our main mass against first one flank and then the other, thus acquiring in each superiority of force at the point of combat and destroying his force in detail.

"The surprise at Rabaul was as complete as at Wewak.

"This operation, including the first phase at Wewak, gives us definite mastery in the air over the Solomons sea and adjacent waters, and thereby threatens the enemy's whole perimeter of defense."

Disastrous Defeat

Gen. MacArthur began his official announcement of the raid with the statement that "the enemy has sustained a disastrous defeat from an air attack at Rabaul."

The general disclosed that the Fifth Air Force fliers used fields made available by Allied occupation of island groups north of New Guinea late in June.

The surprise of the assault was so complete that the Japs could get only 40 fighters into the air to challenge the Allied raiders, and of these enemy craft 26 were destroyed in dogfights.

Heavy Allied planes also struck at the Jap air base of Gasmata on the south shore of New Britain. This raid followed a night attack off Cape Gloucester in which a direct hit was made on the stern of an 8,000-ton cargo vessel which was stranded on a reef. The air-drome also was hit and fires started.

Allied planes, heavy torpedo craft and dive-bombers, also were active in the Northern Solomons where they smashed at the Kahili airdrome at Buin on Bougainville island. Many fires were started and a fuel dump was exploded. The Japs sent up 23 interceptors, 15 of which were destroyed. Over Ooma island in Bougainville strait Allied patrols engaged 10 enemy planes and shot down six.

The communique disclosed that all organized Jap resistance on Vella Lavella island in the Central Solomons has ceased and that the entire New Georgia group of islands now is in Allied hands.

Feeble air assaults by the Japs were reported. Off Cape Cretin, New Guinea, Allied light naval craft fought off intermittent air attacks. They shot down one bomber. At Buna three Jap planes made a night raid which had negligible effect.

FATHER SAVES SON ATTACKED BY MAD BULL

Harold Reese, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Reese, Harrison township, was lucky that his father was nearby Thursday at 8:30 a. m. when he was struck by a Guernsey bull. The attack happened in the barn at the Reese farm when the youth was watering the animal.

The bull was tied, the youth's mother reported, but in some manner was able to strike the farm boy. Had Mr. Reese not been in the barn to drag his son away from the animal the attack might have been much more serious.

Young Reese is bruised considerably, but he did not require hospitalization. He was given treatment at his home by Dr. L. C. Schiff of Ashville.

"With 25,000 persons in Pickaway county, hundreds of them physically able to give blood without any inconvenience, it seems a shame that these people who have donated their blood should be called on again," Dean pointed out. However, some of the persons who have already won silver pins through their donations are starting to volunteer again, after learning that the number of volunteers had fallen far short of the required total.

GETS ONLY SIX JAPS; SHOOTING POOR, HE SAYS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 14—If all Allied airmen are such "poor" shots as Col. Neel Kearby of San Antonio, Tex., Tojo's fliers might as well call off the war and go home.

On his return from a four-ship fighter sweep over Wewak, the 32-year-old bushy-browed Yank airmen complained:

"I can't shoot. I had two deflection shots and missed them both."

He was describing a sweep in which he shot down six Japanese fighters. Kearby was with Capt. William Dunnham of Nezperce, Idaho; Capt. John Moore of Montgomery, Ala., and Maj. Raymond Gallagher of Williamette, Ill., when they encountered 36 assorted enemy fighters escorting 12 bombers.

"We went out looking for something to shoot. We found it," Kearby modestly explained, describing one of the misses.

"We had plenty of airspeed when we saw 'em. I saw Moore with two on his tail so I peeled off and came down in the rear of a Zero, raking him right from the stern. He burst into flame and his buddy split-tailed around and made a headon attack."

"I fired, but missed. I told you I couldn't shoot."

Kearby didn't describe the second failure, but related he later climbed for altitude and made another pass at an enemy formation. He said:

"They were in a nice formation, just sitting there. All you had to do was start from the rear and work up to the front. Nothing to it."

ment which had been bogged down in mud to advance.

German defense forces battled back furiously to retain a hold on the river positions and considerable heavy fighting was expected before the main units of the Nazis can be dislodged.

An Allied advance to Vichiaturo, 23 miles north of Benevento, was reported by the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio. The Vichy broadcast acknowledged steady Allied advances on the central sector.

Uses Full Strength

Before the crossings of the Volturno were made Gen. Clark brought up strong reinforcements on the bank opposite the German positions.

The enemy was hit heavily and over a wide area by Allied aircraft. The airmen operating in the Mediterranean theatre highlighted their action with a powerful assault upon Tirana, capital of Albania.

In Italy, unescorted American Marauders in close cooperation with the ground forces applied a heavy blitz to German-held Alife, 15 miles northeast of Capua. Bombs covered the town despite fierce anti-aircraft opposition.

Crewmen said they believed the town was practically wiped out. Unescorted bombers pounded vital Sessa Aurunca road junction, east of Gaeta, as well as other roads and highways nearby. They scored many direct hits.

Fighter planes patrolled the Eighth Army front, while fighter-bombers and light bombers attacked tank and troop concentrations opposing the Fifth Army.

Obstacles Overcome

Despite all the obstacles presented by the Germans and the swollen Volturno river itself, engineers of the fighting Fifth threw their pontoons across the deepest places under cover of a smoke screen. Not only infantry, but tank forces as well, surged quickly across the improvised bridges and tackled the enemy at close range.

The Nazis soon yielded their best ground immediately behind the river's edge. The fighting hit its peak of intensity Tuesday night at the moment the Germans launched their hardest thrust against Capua and actually succeeded in getting some forces into the town, where a brief but lusty street battle developed.

The enemy apparently had spotted the Fifth Army's assault preparations and immediately attempted to hamstring the forthcoming drive by hitting at the most strategic spot. They soon were driven back across the northern bank of the river, however, whereupon Gen. Clark gave the signal for his own offensive.

Yanks and Tommies, wading, swimming and splashing, dashed across to the German-held shore and the drive was on in earnest.

Yanks Hard Hit

In his thrust on Capua, Marshal Kesselring did not use his panzer forces, while the Fifth Army after strengthening its bridgeheads, rushed armored units across to hammer the Nazi lines mercilessly with every ounce of strength available. Artillery, planes and mortars also blasted at the Nazi entrenchments in an effort to force a break-through.

In Russia, German garrisons in the Crimea and at Kiev and Gomel were threatened with encirclement as Soviet forces continued to advance, despite desperate enemy counterattacks.

Tense battles were reported raging amid the flaming ruins of the White Russian rail city of Gomel.

HUNS PASS OUT EMERGENCY FOOD RATION IN ROME

LONDON, Oct. 14—German occupation forces have begun distribution of emergency rations in Rome in expectation that the city will become an immediate center of battle, a Berne dispatch to the London Evening Standard said today.

Instructions have been given to the populace to hold the rations until further orders.

The Germans also ordered emergency storage of at least four days' supply of water and directed that the entire coast from Ostia to Mettuno as far inland as Velletri be evacuated.

milk this year. Farmers will obtain payments for only the last quarter.

The dairy situation in Pickaway and in other central Ohio counties at the present time is none too good, with pastures being burned up by lack of rain. The 15 of an inch rain which was recorded Wednesday in Circleville was the first in nearly a month, and it was far too light to help pastures. Dairy operators are urging farmers to put their herds on Winter feeding now and keep them there, but Winter feed shortages are expected if this, feeding program is put into operation.

Dairymen say the amount of milk produced for shipment out of Pickaway county is off about 20 percent, while they expect no shortage for home consumption.

PAPER SHORTAGE NOW THREATENS FOOD SUPPLIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Arthur D. Whiteside, WPB vice-chairman in charge of civilian supplies, warned today that the acute shortage of pulpwood for paper containers threatens to break down America's entire food distribution machinery.

At the same time, Whiteside urged farmers to begin immediate cutting of pulpwood on their farm lands to bolster the supply by a needed 2,500,000 cords.

"The paper shortage is one of the most serious problems facing America's civilian economy and if pulpwood cutting doesn't increase, the nation is threatened with a breakdown of the entire machinery of food distribution," Whiteside said.

With the bulk of civilian foodstuffs packaged and shipped in paper or paper-product containers such as fibre board, bags, sacks, corrugated paper, waxed papers and hundreds of other types, the WPB official pointed to the serious disruptions bound to occur when these supplies are drastically curtailed.

WPB estimates that 300 million baby chicks may not be shipped during the coming season due to a lack of fibre board containers. This is only one of many instances in which the shortage is being felt, a WPB spokesman declared.

gateway to Poland. Another four-mile surge by Red Army units south of the Dnieper river, rail and industrial center of Kiev also increased the threat to Russia's third largest city.

Meanwhile, heavy slaughter of Nazi troops occurred along many sections of the 1,800-mile Russian front, particularly in the south where Soviet Marshal Semyon Timoshenko launched a new drive to trap the Nazis on the Crimean peninsula. His forces were fighting in Melitopol, rail city commanding approaches to the Crimea.

pared to fight. That is the reason we entered the war.

Anxious For Battle

"Our air and naval forces are equally anxious with our army to cooperate with the Allies and expel the Germans from Italian soil."

Indicating that Italy's crack Alpine troops will play an important role when the Germans are backed up to the Alps, the marshal pointed out:

"Italian forces are particularly suited for mountain fighting and will be especially useful there (in the mountains). Our mules can go places where it is difficult for motor transport to operate."

Badoglio said all Italian ambassadors with one exception—the envoy to Berlin—had proclaimed their loyalty to the present constitutional government of Italy.

Badoglio read a statement promising a thoroughly democratic government—whose "mandate will cease" when peace is won.

Asked what form he believed German reaction to Italy's war declaration would take, Badoglio said: "The Germans cannot do worse than they've done already to the people of Nazi-occupied parts of Italy, where civilians and troops have been subjected to savage outrages and acts of barbarity."

He refused to predict how soon the Germans would be driven out of Italy. "I have never practiced the profession of prophet," he said, "but if I could get my way, it would be tomorrow."

He also declined to predict whether Japan would declare war on Italy as a sign of solidarity with Germany.

FILM ACTRESS FAVORS DRAFT OF ALL WOMEN

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—Film Actress Ann Dvorak was back in Hollywood today after an absence of three years spent in England—and she brought with her definite opinions of American womanhood.

American women, like the English, should be drafted into the armed forces or compelled to work in war plants, she declared.

"American women don't seem to realize that they're wanted, that they're needed," she said.

RACCOON COSTS $15

Robert Smith, 25, of near Five Points, paid a fine of $15 and costs Wednesday evening to Squire B. T. Hedges after he was arrested for having possession of two raccoon out of season. The arrest was made by Conservation Officer Clarence Francis.

BUY WAR BONDS

George W. Smith, 123 Park avenue, told police Thursday that someone had taken his ration books from his property. All the books Smith owned, including Nos. 1, 2 and 3, were taken, he said.

ranges protecting Rapopo and Vunakanau from the east. The Vunakanau force and its escorting fighters swung sharply to the left while Lieut. Col. Don Hall of Corpus Christi, Tex., hero of the first Wewak raid, attacked with the second of three powerful elements comprising the Rapopo force.

We struck in split formations of three, each echelon sweeping across the airdrome and dispersal bays in beautiful waves. From a vantage point behind Henebry, bombs and machine gun fire from Hall's lead ship could be seen pummeling down on the airdrome installations; in seconds the whole path in front of us was a holocaust of air fire, ground fire and bomb explosions.

On the right, Lieut. Charles Howe of Ventura, Calif., piloting "Here's How," was converging his fire on the western dispersal bays with noteworthy results.

Three ships abreast we skidded into the target at the Mitchell's usually difficult-to-believe speed. Our bombs dropped among a cluster of 13 parked aircraft while our weaving machine guns fire made of Fourth of July spectacle for air personnel and installations on the right side of Rapopo.

Some of six medium enemy bombers which attempted to scramble off the airdrome escaped. Most of them did not.

Lieut. Joseph Helbert of Sterling, Colo., flying with Flight Officer Urban Arens of Dyeraville, Iowa, was easily visible on our flank dispensing with one Nip.

Then with the breathtaking suddenness typical of assault aviation, we were off the target—and away from uncomfortably fierce anti-aircraft fire which punctuated the skies around us.

A quick look back disclosed the majority of the foe's aircraft smoldering or afire where it was found when we arrived. Far back two Mitchell's—piloted by Lieut. Raymond Rosebush of Teaneck, N. J., and Lieut. Jack Saunders of Sen Mateo, Calif.,—were loosing all their bombs and strafing fire on great Japanese wireless installations. The whole station area was encompassed in flames and smoke immediately after the attack.

By now we were over the middle of the St. Georges Channel, but the attack wasn't over. Henebry didn't stop. With Ellis on the right and Lieut. Richard (Red) Davis of Meedford, Ore., on the left, we swooped low over the water, strafing a Jap patrol boat and a large coastal lugger. Another look backward glance—and the patrol boat was split in two, while the lugger was afire and sinking.

At the same time, Lieut. William Rickford of Minneapolis, Minn., and Flying Officer Harold Price of Venice, Calif., were dispensing with two other coastal craft with the same finesse.

Swinging down the New Britain coast brought into view the havoc wrought at both Vunakanau and Rapopo. As it came in sharp focus, great oil fires welled skyward, preceded by towering columns of dense black smoke.

Above us Lightning Aces Capt. Gerald Johnson of Portland, Ore., and Capt. Richard Bong of Poplar, Wisc., rejoined our formation as top cover. They had been protecting our flanks from any fighters based at Kakuanu airdrome.

We—the attack bombardment spearhead for the great aerial offensive against Rabaul—had completed our prescribed tasks with precision, coordination, and overwhelmingly successful results.

We knew that within minutes the mightiest Allied heavy bombardment forces ever to pound Rabaul would be over the harbor shipping. And we knew that our part had paved a ruinous highway for the nip hopes in New Britain.

In more ways than one that pleased us most of all.

RABAUl RAID WRECKS JAPs' DEFENSE PLANS

ment of the three airdromes, other Allied squadrons swept in over the base to plaster radar installations, fuel and ammunition dumps and other installations.

Guns Silenced

Numerous anti-aircraft positions were silenced and a motor transport pool was wrecked. Two wharves and a warehouse were destroyed along with other waterfront installations which were set ablaze.

Gen. MacArthur pointed out that the operation against Rabaul was the second phase of a campaign to secure sky mastery over the Solomons sea. The initial strike was made when the Jap air strength at Wewak, New Guinea, was wiped out in similar manner. Wewak constituted the right wing of Tojo's air command.

"This time," said Gen. MacArthur's communique, "our objective was his left wing at Rabaul. The division of his air forces into two great groups based upon Wewak and Rabaul has made it possible to use our main mass against first one flank and then the other, thus acquiring in each superiority of force at the point of combat and destroying his force in detail.

"The surprise at Rabaul was as complete as at Wewak.

"This operation, including the first phase at Wewak, gives us definite mastery in the air over the Solomons sea and adjacent waters, and thereby threatens the enemy's whole perimeter of defense."

Disastrous Defeat

Gen. MacArthur began his official announcement of the raid with the statement that "the enemy has sustained a disastrous defeat from an air attack at Rabaul."

The general disclosed that the Fifth Air Force fliers used fields made available by Allied occupation of island groups north of New Guinea late in June.

The surprise of the assault was so complete that the Japs could get only 40 fighters into the air to challenge the Allied raiders, and of these enemy craft 26 were destroyed in dogfights.

Heavy Allied planes also struck at the Jap air base of Gasmata on the south shore of New Britain. This raid followed a night attack off Cape Gloucester in which a direct hit was made on the stern of an 8,000-ton cargo vessel which was stranded on a reef. The air-drome also was hit and fires started.

Allied planes, heavy torpedo craft and dive-bombers, also were active in the Northern Solomons where they smashed at the Kahili airdrome at Buin on Bougainville island. Many fires were started and a fuel dump was exploded. The Japs sent up 23 interceptors, 15 of which were destroyed. Over 100 enemy planes engaged 10 enemy planes and shot down six.

The communique disclosed that all organized Jap resistance on Vella Lavella island in the Central Solomons has ceased and that the entire New Georgia group of islands now is in Allied hands.

Feeble air assaults by the Japs were reported. Off Cape Cretin, New Guinea, Allied light night craft fought off intermittent air attacks. They shot down one bomber. At Buna three Jap planes made a night raid which had negligible effect.

FATHER SAVES SON ATTACKED BY MAD BULL

Harold Reese, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Reese, Harrison township, was lucky that his father was nearby Thursday at 8:30 a. m. when he was struck by a Guernsey bull. The attack happened in the barn at the Reese farm when the youth was watering the animal.

The bull was tied, the youth's mother reported, but in some manner was able to strike the farm boy. Had Mr. Reese not been in the barn to drag his son away from the animal the attack might have been much more serious.

here, and Red Cross thought that this time these persons could be excused from making their donations. "With 28,000 persons in Pickaway county, hundreds of them physically able to give blood without any inconvenience, it seems a shame that these people who have donated their blood should be called on again," Dean pointed out. However, some of the persons who have already won silver pins through their donations are starting to volunteer again, after learning that the number of volunteers had fallen far short of the required total.

GETS ONLY SIX JAPS; SHOOTING POOR, HE SAYS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 14—If all Allied airmen are such "poor" shots as Col. Neel Kearby of San Antonio, Tex., Tojo's fliers might as well call off the war and go home.

On his return from a four-ship fighter sweep over Wewak, the 32-year-old bushy-browed Yank airman complained:

He was describing a sweep in which he shot down six Japanese fighters. Kearby was with Capt. William Dunnham of Nezperce, Idaho; Capt. John Moore of Montgomery, Ala., and Maj. Raymond Gallagher of Williamette, Ill., when they encountered 36 assorted enemy fighters escorting 12 bombers.

"We went out looking for something to shoot. We found it," Kearby modestly explained, describing one of the misses.

"We had plenty of airspace when we saw 'em. I saw Moore with two on his tail so I peeled off and came down in the rear of a Zero, raking him right from the stern. He burst into flame and his buddy split-tailed around and made a headon attack."

"I fired, but missed. I told you I couldn't shoot."

Kearby didn't describe the second failure, but related he later climbed for altitude and made another pass at an enemy formation. He said:

HEATING STOVE PURCHASES GET OPA APPROVAL

Office of Price Administration has pledged to all local rationing boards that everyone who needs a stove for heating to keep warm this Winter will be able to buy one. But this does not mean, OPA pointed out, that those who have had no need for heating stoves in the past can get one "just in case" they might need it.

Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office is receiving many requests for certificates for the purchase of heating stoves at this time. The board is following a set system of rules set up by OPA to ascertain that those actually in need obtain these certificates.

Eligibility to purchase a new stove under rationing necessitates the showing that there is no usable stove at present and that one is needed to heat essential living or working space.

OPA officials have expressed belief that there are enough stoves in the region to meet all needs if they are distributed evenly.

HOOSIERS SHOW WAY IN BIG 10 GONFALON RACE

Purdue And Indiana Teams Best Offensively And Defensively

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Topflight Purdue and mediocre Indiana were shown today to be galloping to an early lead in offensive and defensive play in the Big Ten Football Conference.

The Boilermakers are the front-running attackers in the early Big Ten games. Indiana counted only six points in its league game.

Figures announced by Maj. John T. Griffith, commissioner of the Big Ten, show that Purdue gained 454 yards and all but 51 of them on the ground against Illinois, their only conference opponent thus far.

In this achievement they were led by Tony Butkovich, the Boilermaker fullback who went to Purdue from Illinois as a marine student trainee. He sprinted for four touchdowns against his old alma mater to take the scoring lead for the conference.

Indiana, while losing to Northwestern in its one conference game, held the Wildcats to 92 yards, only 36 on the ground, Illinois, with its fast-stepping youngsters, is second in offensive power, with Michigan third. The Wolves are second best on the defensive side and Iowa is third.

Veterans of the league are the best punters, according to the figures. Northwestern, with 36.6 yards has the best booting average and Michigan with 35.5 is second. Teams like Illinois, Indiana and Iowa are not averaging 30 yards.

Bucks Meet Purdue
Only seven Big Ten elevens have engaged in a championship game to date but Ohio State swings into action Saturday against Purdue while the powerful Minnesota Gophers ring up the curtain on their title campaign in the little brown jug battle against Michigan October 23.

Four players are tied with Butkovich for scoring honors, each with two touchdowns. They are Bill Daley, on lend-lease with Michigan from Minnesota; Don Kindt, durable Wisconsin freshman, and Don Greenwood and Chet Sajnaj of Illinois.

Daley tops Butkovich in yardage negotiated with the leather. He has belted his way 216 yards with the ball tucked under his arm 26 times. Butkovich did almost as well in fewer trips, however, traveling 207 yards in 12 forays.

Passing honors in the Big Ten go to a raw freshman, Bob "Humpy" Hoernschmeyer of Indiana. He was the only scoring threat against Northwestern as he whipped the ball forward 14 times, completing seven passes for a net gain of 114 yards.

Three Major Questions Facing Baseball Moguls

By Lawton Carver
NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The three big baseball questions that remained unanswered after the World Series were (1) will there be baseball next year, (2) who is going to manage the Chicago Cubs and (3) who is going to manage the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The answers will be known when somebody steps up and makes a definite announcement. Until then everything is speculation.

As for the likelihood of baseball going for another year, I can only repeat what Bucky Harris was saying a few nights ago when the World Series was still in New York. Mr. Harris is pretty close to the Washington situation and probably sees a straw in the wind. In any case he doesn't babble aimlessly.

"I feel sure there will be Major League baseball next season," the former manager of several Major League teams said. "I doubt that any of the minors will go again, however, if the war is still on."

"I think the majors will start the season with whatever 4-F's and overage and underage players they can get and go on from there. Possibly some minor league players will be brought up at a premium price simply so the majors can go."

The point is that Major League baseball is fairly important to the citizens and to the boys in the service and on that basis they will deem it their duty to keep in action. Also, of course baseball makes money for the people that own the clubs, a not inconsiderable angle to all this.

It seems likely that in the event there is baseball that the Cubs and the Dodgers will wind up with new pilots.

In St. Louis the word got around that Bill Sweeney, who managed for the Cubs in their farming interests in the Pacific Coast league, would go to the parent club as successor to Jimmy Wilson.

The Dodger situation is still something else again. Brother Branch Rickey seems determined to get rid of Leo Durocher, or at any rate is giving a fine imitation of a man who is trying to shed a thing deemed useless and undesirable.

Bill Terry, former manager of the New York Giants, and therefore most hated man in Brooklyn, had a conference with Rickey during the World Series and undoubtedly is among those under consideration.

When asked if he was interested in managing the Dodgers, Terry said:

"Certainly. Who wouldn't be?" While Bucky Harris is out of work and frankly admits he is eager to get a job, he says he has not been offered the Brooklyn job or the Cub job. He adds that he has something brewing in baseball, but defies anybody to guess what it is.

BUCKS STRESS ATTACK; PURDUE TOSSES AERIALS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Emphasis was placed on attack in the Ohio State drills today in preparation for the Purdue game at Cleveland. Most of the Buckeye attack revolved around Dean Sensenbaur and the fleet Negro, Ernie Parks.

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Purdue became air-minded today in its drill around the passing of Quarterback Sam Vacanti as the Boilermakers pointed for their clash in Cleveland Saturday with Ohio State. Coach Elmer Burnham had Vacanti toss passes from all angles to ends Joe Buscemi and Frank Bauman.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Jack Zilly's pass snatching ability was expected today to win for him a place on Notre Dame's starting lineup when the Irish invade the Wisconsin Badger fair Saturday.

Other standout performers in recent Irish practice sessions are Right Guard Johnny Perko and Left End Ray Kuffel who also may get starting assignments.

MADISON, Wis.—Coach Harry Stuhldreher was deeply concerned today over the poor showing of his first stringers against the Notre Dame T formation in scrimmage preparation for Saturday's game with the Irish.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—The Indiana Hoosiers polished up their running attack today for their date with the Iowa Hawkeyes Saturday. To strengthen the line, Coach Bo McMillin moved Paul Davis from the backfield into a guard position.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—Three more Iowa Hawkeyes received service calls today, raising to 16 the number lost to the armed forces or illness this fall.

BEEGEES, MIAMI WIN ATTENTION OF STATE FANS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Bowling Green and Miami, rated by many as the cream of Ohio's football playing colleges, will share the spotlight Saturday, when the Beegees tangle with the Bunker Hill Navy boys from Peru, Ind., and Miami scraps it out with Western Michigan.

With victories over Ohio Wesleyan, Central Michigan, Xavier and Patterson Field, Bowling Green is expected to extend their victory streak to five.

The Bee-Gees have rolled up a total of 125 points against its opponents, second only to Miami which has totaled 131 points, and probably have a field day at the expense of Bunker Hill.

The boys from Michigan really romped over Xavier last week, 60-0, while Miami defeated the same team, 60-6.

The Scots, composed mainly of V-5 Cadets, sport a lone victory over Ohio Wesleyan while losing to Baldwin-Wallace and Miami.

A weak Ohio Wesleyan contingent will attempt to hit the comeback trail when it tangles with undefeated but once-tied Oberlin.

RED AND BLACK RESERVES WIN

Ashville Turned Back 13-6 In Practice; B. I. S. Comes Here Friday Night

Circleville high Tiger reserves, comprised mostly of second and third stringers, with a couple of varsity boys getting in the lineup for a few minutes, won a grid game Wednesday evening from Ashville high. The score was 13 to 6.

CHS scoring was done by Deming, who sneaked through center from the one yard line, and Gillis, who grabbed a pass for a 30-yard gain.

Ashville's score came in the last period when Hennis, Ashville halfback, broke loose for 60 yards.

The Ashville boys were playing their first game in some years, and several of them showed plenty of ability.

The Tiger varsity enjoyed a rest Wednesday evening, but was told that it would get some practice Thursday. Coach Roy Black's boys take on Lancaster Boys' Industrial school Friday night on the local lot.

BEEGEES, MIAMI WIN ATTENTION OF STATE FANS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Bowling Green and Miami, rated by many as the cream of Ohio's football playing colleges, will share the spotlight Saturday, when the Beegees tangle with the Bunker Hill Navy boys from Peru, Ind., and Miami scraps it out with Western Michigan.

With victories over Ohio Wesleyan, Central Michigan, Xavier and Patterson Field, Bowling Green is expected to extend their victory streak to five.

The Bee-Gees have rolled up a total of 125 points against its opponents, second only to Miami which has totaled 131 points, and probably have a field day at the expense of Bunker Hill.

Wooster college will be playing before a Dad's Day and Homecoming crowd when it meets an evenly matched case contingent in the first home game for Coach Johnny Swigar's grid team this season.

The Scots, composed mainly of V-5 Cadets, sport a lone victory over Ohio Wesleyan while losing to Baldwin-Wallace and Miami. A weak Ohio Wesleyan contingent will attempt to hit the comeback trail when it tangles with undefeated but once-tied Oberlin.

County Campaign To Get Into High Gear For Three Day Period

Pickaway county's waste paper salvage campaign is already under way with rural school children starting to haul big bundles of paper to their respective buildings. The paper campaign does not get under full way until next week when collections of paper taken to the various buildings will start.

In Circleville, Tuesday has been set up as paper and scrap salvage day, many school children to be dismissed during the day to make house-to-house visits in an effort to pile sky high the amount of scrap paper now available. Hardly a home in Circleville doesn't have paper or magazines of one sort or another which could be used by the paper industry to alleviate a grave shortage.

Opening Changed

Wednesday was the original date for the paper campaign in Circleville, but school authorities and salvage committeemen have moved up the date one day because the Junior Fair will be set up next Wednesday and it might attract too much attention from the boys and girls assigned to gather up paper and other salvage materials.

The county campaign will be centered on three afternoons, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, with school children to cover their townships in search for paper and other scrap materials. All proceeds of the paper campaign will be returned to the various schools.

Registration Hours

George D. McDowell, Pickaway county superintendent, said Thursday that registration in the rural area will be conducted Wednesday from 1 to 6 p. m., Thursday from 1 to 9 p. m., and Friday from 1 to 6 p. m.

All pupils will serve as paper and scrap collectors during the three afternoons they will be dismissed from school. All classes will be held as usual in the mornings on the days of registration.

Need for paper is being stressed by the Circleville plant of the Container Corporation of America. Because so many containers are being sent overseas from which points they cannot be returned, much more paper is needed to carry on work of plants such as the local one.

County Draftees In Columbus For Rigid Physical Examinations

Pickaway county men who will fill the county's October draft quota for Army, Navy, Marine and Coast Guard left Circleville early Thursday for the Columbus induction center. All will undergo rigid physical examinations, those accepted for the Army being returned home for 21-day furloughs, while those going into the Navy or its branches getting seven day leaves.

The contingent was 45 minutes late leaving Circleville, since four men ordered to report appeared an hour late. They told Durward Dowden, board chairman, that they were mixed up in time. All were to report at 6:30, Circleville time. The four who held up the contingent reported at 7:30, Circleville time.

The contingent took all the remaining men in the pool which included married men who have no children as dependents. It also took some 18 year olds, and some men who have been married for some years, but because of one reason or another had not abided by Selective Service rules. Several of them were sent because they had been instructed to get into essential industry by April 1 and did not follow Selective Service rules.

The November call, which leaves early in the month, is expected to include many pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, about three-fifths of the quota being from this category. The November call is somewhat smaller than October's, however.

COOPERATION

A sharp eye and ear can discern things lately which seem like efforts to create coolness and weaken cooperation between the Americans and the British. Our people have really come to admire the British more than usual in this war, and to get along with them better than usual; but there might be developing "a little rift within the lute, which by and by will make the music mute." Intelligent and loyal people in both countries must be on guard against that.

Anyone who has read John Roy Carlson's startling best-seller, "Under Cover," or who has talked with intelligent and loyal Americans informed along that line, will understand the danger of loose or grudging talk. This war, more than most wars, is fought primarily with ideas. It is mainly what people think and feel about the free nations, and what they represent, that puts weapons into their hands and strengthens their souls to preserve their freedom. And in the winning of such a war for civilization, careless comment or a grudging spirit may be as bad as lost battles.

RUSSIA'S JOB

AMERICANS who insist that Russia should give her allies landing fields and other facilities in southern Siberia, from which to bomb Japan, are neither fair nor realistic. If Russia did that, she would probably find herself at war with Japan; and she has enough to do on the European front without taking on another war, in eastern Asia, at the same time.

There seems to be an impression among many Americans that the power of Russia is limitless. The Russians have demonstrated such unexpected strength on the western front that there is danger of a growing tendency for Britons and Americans to sit back and "let Stalin do it." That is a very dangerous attitude, which should be nipped in the bud wherever it appears.

The war can and will be won. But only by great and continuous effort from all the Allies, each participating where and in what manner it can do the most good, will the war be won in a time short enough to avoid a great and world-wide post-war prostration.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

OPEN UP LATIN AMERICA

WASHINGTON — On top of senatorial revelations regarding British use of lend-lease goods, a secret negotiation regarding further concessions to the British has just leaked out.

These concessions, now under consideration by the State department, would permit the British to invade Latin America commercially, the one area so far exempted where they cannot benefit directly or indirectly from lend-lease.

The British would also secure a pledge from the United States not to infringe on British areas of competition during the war, and if so, to surrender that trade after the war.

Finally the negotiations would provide that all lend-lease be distributed through the most expeditious channels, but not interfere with the established channels of trade. (The British control most of the established channels of trade.)

To understand the full story it is necessary to go back to September 10, 1941, when Ambassador Winant and Foreign Minister Eden drew up a lend-lease white paper, which provided, in brief, that Britain would not export commercially lend-lease goods or other materials released because of lend-lease except under certain circumstances, such as if the goods were needed overseas and not obtainable from the U. S. A.

Almost immediately thereafter, this agreement was suspended. It was then provided that exports were to be surveyed case by case, also that the British were free to export their own goods, some of them released because of lend-lease, to any part of the British empire or to Allied countries in the eastern hemisphere.

In other words this permitted ordinary British exports to Canada, Australia, India and other parts of the empire, plus virtually all countries in the old world. Churchill also secured an agreement from the President that Britain should distribute lend-lease in Turkey, and as a result American airplanes now have the label "Curtiss-Wright" pasted over with the label "Britain Delivers the Goods."

This also meant that the only area where the British agreed to stay out was Latin America.

Recently, however, the British have sent a memo to the State department proposing—as stated above—to (1) waive the white paper altogether, which would open up Latin America; (2) agree that the United States not infringe on established British areas of trade, or if so, to relinquish them after the war; (3) send lend-lease through most expeditious channels, but not interfere with established channels of trade.

NOTE: Many senators, though strong supporters of permanent British cooperation, believe that recent revelations in the senate came just in time to stiffen the State department's give-away policy. They believe that this policy, carried too far, would have caused a revulsion of American opinion and permanently hurt British cooperation for peace after the war.

However it now looks as if the British would propose wholesale reciprocal lend-lease.

Home Remedies For Skin Troubles

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN THE ARTICLE yesterday I commented on how common is the practice for a fellow to try to treat his own skin trouble, and

The common skin affections can be roughly classified in the language of the vernacular thus:

1. "Something you ate, no doubt."
2. "What bit you?"
3. "Never an athlete, but always a fool."
4. "Pale, callow and pimply—started smoking too early."
5. "Who knows what's good for a fever blister?"
6. "Y' been picking up toads again."

Types of Affections

These correspond to (1) food allergy, hives, eczema in infants and drug eruptions; (2) contact dermatitis, with plants and chemicals (many new ones in war industry), and that fine old disease, scabies, or the itch; (3) infections of the skin, the commonest of which by all odds is ringworm, or athlete's foot; (4) pus infections of the skin—acne, impetigo; (5) skin manifestations of some internal disease, the commonest being fever blisters and shingles; (6) new growth of the skin, warts being the most familiar; but, if you are over fifty, have a scaly skin, and find a place that bleeds easily when rubbed, perhaps an early cancer.

Now, as to remedies for these difficulties. The amateur dermatologist needs a good soother and a good germ killer. Nature will do most of the rest.

Camphor has been called the morphine of the skin. Carbolic acid, or phenol, is also a skin antiseptic; it should be used by the amateur in very diluted form. The two together, camphor and phenol, make a true and tried remedy. Soap and water are almost always irritating to the inflamed skin or irritated skin. The winter itch of old people, with dry, scaly skin, can usually be promptly cured by telling them to stop bathing for a week.

The drugs which kill off germs, fungi, parasites in or on the skin, and which yet do not injure the skin itself are mercury, sulphur, salicylic acid resorcin and iodine. Ammoniated mercury salve is used in pus infections of the skin, such as impetigo. Ringworm is usually treated in the mild stages with salicylic acid in the form of Whitfield's ointment. Scabies, or the itch yields best to sulphur. Iodine, of course, is the good preventive of infection on cuts, etc.

Diet, x-ray, light therapy and vaccines are all part of the professional dermatologist's equipment for skin treatment. Perhaps the best lesson for the amateur is that if his method of treatment does not show results within 48 hours, he had better give the professional a chance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. V.: Does a woman with an overactive thyroid have a chance to become a mother?

Answer: Yes. She should be under more careful medical treatment than usual, but there are lots of successful cases.

T. Y.: Recently a young man was said to have tuberculosis of the bone and would be a helpless cripple for life. All the symptoms show anything but tuberculosis of the bone. Is there any cure for the disease? Does a person having it become paralyzed? Can a paralysis be caused by anything, by airplane diving where a person is under a great strain?

Answer: In the first place, what bone is supposed to have tuberculosis? I presume from the tone of your questions that it affects the spine where the process may get into the nerves or spinal cord and cause paralysis. Cure is possible in early cases. The symptoms of the early cases are pain, holding the back in a rigid way, disinclination to stoop over and pick things off the floor, fever and pallor. I know of no instances where paralysis resulted from airplane diving if the pilot was healthy to begin with.

B. B.: Is it likely for a person to have spinal meningitis the second time?

Answer: No. Meningococci and pneumococci meningitis absolutely protect from a second attack.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

BRENDA LOST no time in carrying out her plan to contact the motor boat man. She had seen the pantry woman, who was a comparatively youthful person, so, she figured, her nephew should be on the callow side, and not too diffident when it came to wangling information.

As soon as she reached the old Leigh place, she told Aunt Mary that she could take the rest of the day off and go visit her daughter, a young woman who was always having a "misery" of one sort or another. Then when she had seen Aunt Mary go waddling down the path which led to a Negro settlement, Brenda hurried to the kitchen and prepared a picnic lunch. She put this in a small hamper, got a recent novel from the living room, and some manuscript that needed correcting from the room up in the tower. With these she went down the path which led to the river bank some distance from the house.

There she settled herself in a sandy hollow—a sort of small beach overshadowed by willows—and busied herself being a lookout. Although there was now a feel of winter in the air, the sunlight which touched the white sand was pleasantly warm. Some insects made honey little sounds now and then, insects that were staying on as long as possible before seeking a warmer climate.

She opened the novel and tried to read, keeping her ears cocked for the sound of a motor boat. But she had some difficulty in concentrating on either the book or the sound, for she kept thinking about Adam North. What was the matter with the man anyway? He had kissed her up in the tower room and had apparently enjoyed it—but there had been no second romantic scene. Of course Adam was busy, had a lot on his mind, as had everyone else, but that shouldn't keep him from showing that he liked her—if he really did.

It bothered her. And she again recalled what that doctor had said to her up in New York. "The trouble with you modern women is that competing with men in the business world has gone to your heads. It's taken something out of you—the little feminine charms, the helplessness."

And she had said, "In other words, we have ceased to be clinging vines."

Maybe that was the trouble, she now thought. Maybe being a successful newspaper woman had taken from her a lot of the feminine charms men like Adam North liked to find in a woman. Maybe she ought to be less self-sufficient, and try to be the clinging vine type at heart. "Damn it all, I'm falling in love with Adam—and it's making me unhappy—it's getting me down."

She thought of the way Adam's hair grew and felt an urge—as she had often felt before—to run her fingers through it. She remembered how his eyes could twinkle, and then grow serious with fascinating depths in their darkness. She recalled how white his teeth looked because of the healthy tan which was so becoming to him. Then she wondered if Adam hesitated to express his love for her or any other woman because of his slight limp—that injury that was keeping him out of the Army. If so, he was downright silly. He was making a mountain out of a molehill—and yet not she nor any other woman could go up to Adam and say, "Look here, you handsome thing, you—I don't give a hoot about your limp, bless your dear heart. What's a limp or two when a woman loves a man, and he loves her?" No, saying anything like that would be extremely unmaidenly, as her grandmother used to express it. And certainly it wouldn't be in keeping with the clinging vine she was considering turning herself into.

She sighed and closed the book she was holding. The man up in New York had written her again in regard to a position on the paper. It carried a fine salary—that position—and maybe she ought to stop thinking romantic thoughts about Adam North, pack her trunk and hie back to Manhattan. One thing certain, if Adam never got around to talking of love, if he convinced her that she was just a woman in his life and nothing more, she would leave Linville. She'd have to. She couldn't stay around there, seeing Adam every day, and growing hourly into an unloved and lonely spinster. No, work would have to be her salvation. And work she would take—if she couldn't take Adam. Time was flying, and soon she—

Suddenly she sat up. She heard the faint "putt-putt" of a gasoline engine. She got to her feet and walked closer to the river's edge. She looked down the stream, and saw the greenish color of a motor boat flashing in the sun. It came on and on—nearer and nearer—and something like panic got hold of her. Not that she was frightened—for there wasn't anything to be frightened of so far as she knew—but because she suddenly realized that she hadn't really decided on a way to attract the attention of the man in the boat.

Then it happened! The bank on which she was standing gave way with a lurch, and she flung out her hands to catch an overhanging branch. There she clung. And even as she did so—knowing that she'd land in the river if her hands slipped—she thought, "It couldn't have been more perfect if I had planned it!" But she hoped the boat would get within calling distance without too much delay, for hanging there in such a precarious fashion was far from comfortable.

"Help!" she yelled. "Help!" The "putt-putt" was much nearer now, and by twisting her head about a little she could see the boat and the man at the wheel. He was standing up, staring in her direction.

"Help!" she yelled again. "Save me!"

Then she smiled in spite of her discomfort, and remembered an old silent movie she had seen in a museum up in New York. "I'm exactly like the heroine in that crazy play," she thought. "Brenda Leigh, in 'The Perils of Pearlina.' Only Pearlina was a soap or something, if she remembered aright. And she wished Adam North were there to rescue her. Everything would be just perfect if he should suddenly come bounding down the path on a white horse, or just on his own 'shank's mare.'"

"Maybe if he saw her hanging there like a rag doll, with the river eating at the bank, he would think of her as a clinging vine and say, 'Darling, I love you!'"

Then she said, "I must be getting delicious or something—thinking such utter nonsense."

Just then the man in the boat yelled out, "What in heck are you trying to do there—hang yourself?"

"I'm not trying," said Brenda. "I AM hanging."

The man shut off the motor and the boat drifted closer, bumping into the soft bank.

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, October 14

LARGE AND significant operation should work out successfully if they are undertaken with well-reasoned plans, sound tactics, and hard work, together with patience, persistency and the will to win. This may be against definite opposition from large interests or superiors, or perhaps want of community or public endorsement. Stability, good judgment and proper manipulation of obstacles or impediment are likely to attract the enthusiastic support of influential persons, won over by novelty, ingenuity and cleverness. Also there is forecast of inheritance or a property windfall.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should have the clear mentality, ingenuity and sound sense to grasp important openings for stabilizing their affairs and possessions, by well-laid plans, sound tactics and the will to forge ahead against impediments or opposition from group or public. In the end this ingenuity, skill and high purpose should win the endorsement of those in place and power. All this should have excellent reactions on the private life, possibly to the extent of gifts, trust or inheritance. Industry and application should batter down all limitations and impediments.

A child born on this day should have splendid talents and traits of character to attract the approbation of those in high places, probably eventually being the recipient of a substantial gift, trust fund or inheritance.

The personnel of the United States Merchant Marine now consists of about 75,000 men.

Wife Preservers

To keep the leather hood of a baby carriage from cracking, wash with a saddle soap, and when dry polish with two even, thin coats of paste wax. Each coat of wax, when dry, should be well rubbed. Keep hood spread open as much as possible.

Marching Men

2,000 ships of the United Nations took part in the invasion of Sicily; the Axis reports a million United Nations soldiers concentrated in Syria; millions more hold Africa. It costs more than $500 to keep one soldier overseas for a year. Figure it out yourself how many War Bonds can buy to support these campaigns. Then do it. They need your help.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up at the usual hour and soon outdoors on a fine morning scanning the wreck of the Victory Garden and thinking about next year. The war still will be with us and the need for personal production probably greater than ever. That is, if one wishes to eat. Almost at that point now. Must ask Bob Brehmer how to prepare the soil this Fall in order to get the best possible Spring and Summer results.

Passed the time of day with Mayor Ben who is dishing out plenty of justice these days in city court. Circleville's really heavy drinkers apparently are not affected by the shortage of liquor. Do suspect that more than a little bootleg is flowing.

Chatted with a pair of high school gridders and congratulated them on the showing they are making. Never expected that good a team this year, but there it is. No dissension in the squad and practically every boy in uniform is out there because of a real liking for football and not because of a sense of obligation to the school. That can make a big difference. Anyway, the kids are playing fine ball and if you have not seen them in action this year you should go to the game Friday night. But go early if you wish a seat.

Joe Burns joined the Navy for what he thought was the duration and has just learned that he is in for a full hitch of at least four years. Always did wish to be in the Navy and now he is really there. Now he is wishing for action, and he probably will get that, too.

What do you think of the Red Cross now? Must be a grand organization to receive the tribute paid by Leslie W. Payne. He is out there somewhere in the Pacific fighting for you and me, exposed to untold hardships, sudden death and some $50 a month with no overtime. Yet that youngster sends $25 of his money as a donation to the Red Cross. He did not invest it in War Bonds at a certain profitable return, but made an outright gift. And $25 is a lot of money to that young man. But he has seen the Red Cross in action and knows its value to the man who needs it most. Hats off to Private Leslie W. Payne.

It is more than likely that if Private Payne were near a Red Cross blood bank that he would contribute blood for processing to use in fighting to save the lives of the young ones who fall battling the Axis. Yes, he is that kind. He might have considerable difficulty understanding why the Red Cross has to plead for the enrolling of blood donors. He might be inclined to question the patriotism and interest of able-bodied citizens who can not spare a half hour in behalf of a dying American soldier, sailor or marine. Certainly, more blood donors are needed. Many of them. As a matter of fact, unless there is a last minute rush, the blood bank visit to the city next week may be a failure. This isn't the private war of the Leslie Paynes. It is everybody's war, or should be. And it would be over a lot sooner if we had more Leslie Paynes on the home front instead of so many Joe Holdbacks.

OPEN UP LATIN AMERICA

WASHINGTON — On top of senatorial revelations regarding British use of lend-lease goods, a secret negotiation regarding further concessions to the British has just leaked out.

These concessions, now under consideration by the State department, would permit the British to invade Latin America commercially, the one area so far exempted where they cannot benefit directly or indirectly from lend-lease.

The British would also secure a pledge from the United States not to infringe on British areas of competition during the war, and if so, to surrender that trade after the war.

To understand the full story it is necessary to go back to September 10, 1941, when Ambassador Winant and Foreign Minister Eden drew up a lend-lease white paper, which provided, in brief, that Britain would not export commercially lend-lease goods or other materials released because of lend-lease except under certain circumstances, such as if the goods were needed overseas and not obtainable from the U. S. A.

Almost immediately thereafter, this agreement was suspended. It was then provided that exports were to be surveyed case by case, also that the British were free to export their own goods, some of them released because of lend-lease, to any part of the British empire or to Allied countries in the eastern hemisphere.

In other words this permitted ordinary British exports to Canada, Australia, India and other parts of the empire, plus virtually all countries in the old world. Churchill also secured an agreement from the President that Britain should distribute lend-lease in Turkey, and as a result American airplanes now have the label "Curtiss-Wright" pasted over with the label "Britain Delivers the Goods."

This also meant that the only area where the British agreed to stay out was Latin America.

Recently, however, the British have sent a memo to the State department proposing—as stated above—to (1) waive the white paper altogether, which would open up Latin America; (2) agree that the United States not infringe on established British areas of trade, or if so, to relinquish them after the war; (3) send lend-lease through most expeditious channels, but not interfere with established channels of trade.

NOTE: Many senators, though strong supporters of permanent British cooperation, believe that recent revelations in the senate came just in time to stiffen the State department's give-away policy. They believe that this policy, carried too far, would have caused a revulsion of American opinion and permanently hurt British cooperation for peace after the war.

However it now looks as if the British would propose wholesale reciprocal lend-lease.

Home Remedies For Skin Troubles

IN THE ARTICLE yesterday I commented on how common is the practice for a fellow to try to treat his own skin trouble, and

The common skin affections can be roughly classified in the language of the vernacular thus:

1. "Something you ate, no doubt."
2. "What bit you?"
3. "Never an athlete, but always a fool."
4. "Pale, callow and pimply—started smoking too early."
5. "Who knows what's good for a fever blister?"
6. "I've been picking up toads again."

Types of Affections

These correspond to (1) food allergy, hives, eczema in infants and drug eruptions; (2) contact dermatitis, with plants and chemicals (many new ones in war industry), and that fine old disease, scabies, or the itch; (3) infections of the skin, the commonest of which by all odds is ringworm, or athlete's foot; (4) pus infections of the skin—acne, impetigo; (5) skin manifestations of some internal disease, the commonest being fever blisters and shingles; (6) new growth of the skin, warts being the most familiar; but, if you are over fifty, have a scaly skin, and find a place that bleeds easily when rubbed, perhaps an early cancer.

Now, as to remedies for these difficulties. The amateur dermatologist needs a good soother and a good germ killer. Nature will do most of the rest.

Camphor has been called the morphine of the skin. Carbolic acid, or phenol, is also a skin anesthetic; it should be used by the amateur in very diluted form. The two together, camphor and phenol, make a true and tried remedy. Soap and water are almost always irritating to the inflamed skin or irritated skin. The winter itch of old people, with dry, scaly skin, can usually be promptly cured by telling them to stop bathing for a week.

The drugs which kill off germs, fungi, parasites in or on the skin, and which yet do not injure the skin itself are mercury, sulphur, salicylic acid resorcin and iodine. Ammoniated mercury salve is used in pus infections of the skin, such as impetigo. Ringworm is usually treated in the mild stages with salicylic acid in the form of Whitfield's ointment. Scabies, or the itch yields best to sulphur. Iodine, of course, is the good preventive of infection on cuts, etc.

Diet, x-ray, light therapy and vaccines are all part of the professional dermatologist's equipment for skin treatment. Perhaps the best lesson for the amateur is that if his method of treatment does not show results within 48 hours, he had better give the professional a chance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. V.: Does a woman with an overactive thyroid have a chance to become a mother?

Answer: Yes. She should be under more careful medical treatment than usual, but there are lots of successful cases.

T. Y.: Recently a young man was said to have tuberculosis of the bone and would be a helpless cripple for life. All the symptoms show anything but tuberculosis of the bone. Is there any cure for the disease? Does a person having it become paralyzed? Can a paralysis be caused by anything, by airplane diving where a person is under a great strain?

Answer: In the first place, what bone is supposed to have tuberculosis? I presume from the tone of your questions that it affects the spine where the process may get into the nerves or spinal cord and cause paralysis. Cure is possible in early cases. The symptoms of the early cases are pain, holding the back in a rigid way, disinclination to stoop over and pick things off the floor, fever and pallor. I know of no instances where paralysis resulted from airplane diving if the pilot was healthy to begin with.

B. B.: Is it likely for a person to have spinal meningitis the second time?

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

BRENDA LOST no time in carrying out her plan to contact the motor boat man. She had seen the pantry woman, who was a comparatively youthful person, so, she figured, her nephew should be on the callow side, and not too difficult when it came to wangling information.

As soon as she reached the old Leigh place, she told Aunt Mary that she could take the rest of the day off and go visit her daughter, a young woman who was always having a "misery" of one sort or another. Then when she had seen Aunt Mary go waddling down the path which led to a Negro settlement, Brenda hurried to the kitchen and prepared a picnic lunch. She put this in a small hamper, got a recent novel from the living room, and some manuscript that needed correcting from the room up in the tower. With these she went down the path which led to the river bank some distance from the house.

There she settled herself in a sandy hollow—a sort of small beach overshadowed by willows—and busied herself being a lookout. Although there was now a feel of winter in the air, the sunlight which touched the white sand was pleasantly warm. Some insects made honey like sounds now and then, insects that were staying on as long as possible before seeking a warmer climate.

She opened the novel and tried to read, keeping her ears cocked for the sound of a motor boat. But she had some difficulty in concentrating on either the book or the sound, for she kept thinking about Adam North. What was the matter with the man, anyway? He had kissed her up in the tower room and had apparently enjoyed it—but there had been no second romantic scene. Of course Adam was busy, had a lot on his mind, as had everyone else, but that shouldn't keep him from showing that he liked her—if he really did.

It bothered her. And she again recalled what that doctor had said to her up in New York. "The trouble with you modern women is that competing with men in the business world has gone to your heads. It's taken something out of you—the little feminine charms, the helplessness."

Maybe that was the trouble, she now thought. Maybe being a successful newspaper woman had taken from her a lot of the feminine charms men like Adam North liked to find in a woman. Maybe she ought to be less self-sufficient, and try to be the clinging vine type at heart. "Damn it all, I'm falling in love with Adam—and it's making me unhappy—it's getting me down." She thought of the way Adam's hair grew and felt an urge—as she had often felt before—to run her fingers through it. She remembered how his eyes could twinkle, and then grow serious with fascinating depths in their darkness. She recalled how white his teeth looked because of the healthy tan which was so becoming to him. Then she wondered if Adam hesitated to express his love for her or any other woman because of his slight limp—that injury that was keeping him out of the Army. If so, he was downright silly. He was making a mountain out of a molehill—and yet not she nor any other woman could go up to Adam and say, "Look here, you handsome thing, you—I don't give a hoot about your limp, bless your dear heart. What's a limp or two when a woman loves a man, and he loves her?" No, saying anything like that would be extremely unmaidenly, as her grandmother used to express it. And certainly it wouldn't be in keeping with the clinging vine she was considering turning herself into.

She sighed and closed the book she was holding. The man up in New York had written her again in regard to a position on the paper. It carried a fine salary—that position—any maybe she ought to stop thinking romantic thoughts about Adam North, pack her trunk and lie back to Manhattan. One thing certain, if Adam never got around to talking of love, if he convinced her that she was just a woman in his life and nothing more, she would leave Linville. She'd have to. She couldn't stay around there, seeing Adam every day, and growing hourly into an unloved and lonely spinster. No, work would have to be her salvation. And work she would take—if she couldn't take Adam. Time was flying, and soon she—

Suddenly she sat up. She heard the faint "putt-putt" of a gasoline engine. She put it to her feet and walked closer to the river's edge. She looked down the stream, and saw the greenish color of a motor boat flashing in the sun. It came on and on—nearer and nearer—and something like panic got hold of her. Not that she was frightened—for there wasn't anything to be frightened of so far as she knew—but because she suddenly realized that she hadn't really decided on a way to attract the attention of the man in the boat.

Then it happened! The bank on which she was standing gave way with a lurch, and she flung out her hands to catch an overhanging branch. There she clung. And even as she did so—knowing that she'd land in the river if her hands slipped—she thought, "It couldn't have been more perfect if I had planned it!" But she hoped the boat would get within calling distance without too much delay, for hanging there in such a precarious fashion was far from comfortable.

"Help!" she yelled. "Help!"

The "putt-putting" was much nearer now, and by twisting her head about a little she could see the boat and the man at the wheel. He was standing up, staring in her direction.

Then she smiled in spite of her discomfort, and remembered an old silent movie she had seen in a museum up in New York. "I'm exactly like the heroine in that crazy play," she thought. "Brenda Leigh, in 'The Perils of Pauline.' Only Pauline was a soap or something, if she remembered aright. And she wished Adam North were there to rescue her. Everything would be just perfect if he should suddenly come bounding down the path on a white horse, or just on his own 'shank's mare.'"

"Maybe if he saw her hanging there like a rag doll, with the river eating at the bank, he would think of her as a clinging vine and say, 'Darling, I love you!'"

Just then the man in the boat yelled out, "What in heck are you trying to do there—hang yourself?"

"I'm not trying," said Brenda. "I AM hanging."

The man shut off the motor and the boat drifted closer, bumping into the soft bank.

LARGE AND significant operation should work out successfully if they are undertaken with well-reasoned plans, sound tactics, and hard work, together with patience, persistence and the will to win. This may be against definite opposition from large interests or superiors, or perhaps want of community or public endorsement. Stability, good judgment and proper manipulation of obstacles or impediment are likely to attract the enthusiastic support of influential persons, won over by novelty, ingenuity and cleverness. Also there is forecast of inheritance or a property windfall.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should have the clear mentality, ingenuity and sound sense to grasp important openings for stabilizing their affairs and possessions, by well-laid plans, sound tactics and the will to forge ahead against impediments or opposition from group or public. In the end this ingenuity, skill and hard purpose should win the endorsement of those in place and power. All this should have excellent reactions on the private life, possibly to the extent of gifts, trust or inheritance. Industry and application should batter down all limitations and impediments.

A child born on this day should have splendid talents and traits of character to attract the approbation of those in high places, probably eventually being the recipient of a substantial gift, trust fund or inheritance.

Wartime "Bag-o-Tricks"

to conserve eyes and light!

Try this slight-of-hand with a damp rag. Rub it over the MAZDA lamp bulbs and lamp reflector bowls—and presto, more light to help you see better. Why? Because dust can hold back as much as 50% of light.

Shade tricks for more light: use white-lined shades; brush silk shades; reline parchment shades, using shelf paper and Scotch tape or flat-white paint. And be sure that shades are deep enough.

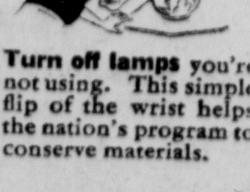

Help to conserve also by arranging lamps and furniture so each lamp can if necessary serve two or more people with good light. But be sure each person sits close enough to the lamp.

Have eyes examined by a competent eyesight specialist. Good light helps make seeing easier; it does not correct eye defects.

MORE FOOD, QUICK

CAMP BLANDING, Fla.—Lieut. Margaret K. Ellis, of Los Angeles, mess officer of Camp Blanding's WAC detachment, says that outdoor meals increases WAC eating capacity by 50 percent. A beach picnic, held at the WAC beachfront on Blanding's Kingsley Lake as the detachment's monthly party, brought such voracious appetites that Mess Sergeant Virginia Basham, of Rosanoke, Va., had to make a hasty retreat to the WAC kitchen for more hot dogs and potato salad.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND BY DREW PEARSON

lease in order to offset current unfavorable public opinion.

PATENTS TO GERMAN

The Justice Department has just unearthed a new and unique case of selling U. S. patents to Germany before Pearl Harbor. In this instance, however, one important U. S. firm, the du Ponts, strongly opposed giving the patent to Germany, while two other firms, General Motors and Standard Oil of New Jersey favored it. In the end du Pont lost out.

The patent in question was for manufacturing tetra-ethyl lead for high octane gasoline and was owned by Standard Oil and General Motors.

In Germany, the Ethyl Corporation had set up Ethyl GmbH in partnership with I. G. Farbenindustrie. And in 1935, American Ethyl proposed letting its German counterpart have its high octane gasoline patent.

Du Ponts, however, protested. They pointed out that Germany wanted the patent for military purposes, that Germany was becoming a dangerous military power. They also pointed out that the U. S. Government frowned on sending these patents abroad.

So the Ethyl Corporation consulted the U. S. Army Air Corps, telling the army that the patent was not secret, Ethyl also said that even if the patent was secret, an equal or compelling reason was the widespread property interest the company had in Germany and that making this patent available in Germany would help the Ethyl Corporation.

NOTE: One important point was that du Pont, which developed the patent, apparently considered it so secret that it should not be given to Germany. But the Ethyl Corporation told the army it was no secret, du Pont has a large interest in General Motors, so was consulted.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Rough-and-ready Buford Jester Texas railroad commissioner, recently regaled a caucus of the Texas Congressional delegation with the story of how he allegedly had torn SEC Commissioner James Pike to shreds over the question of increasing the price of oil. Pike, however, still seems to have a lot of price-depressing influence with Economic Stabilizer Vinson.

Vice President Wallace is about to publish a Statepost article on Small Business, titled "The Little Man with the Big Idea." It will be the most intelligent boost for small business from any Administration spokesman. The publication forgets easily but chalk up score for comely Congresswoman Claire Luce as the first to sour off regarding U. S. air rights of Allied bases after the war. She sounded the warning nine months before the Flying Senators gave birth to the same thing.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Department of Justice lawyer John Lewin has now chalked up big league record of the following major lawsuit victories: oil company price-fixing; medical monopoly; Associated Press; gasoline. Private Bob Nathan saved the tax-payer millions by economic planning job for WI which soon be discharged from army. Nathan was always getting in the hair of Army brass who didn't care for his economic planning. So he was drafted. I had a serious spinal ailment, but that made no difference. In the army he has spent most of his time in the hospital, through no fault of his own, wasting the taxpayer money which for years he had saved. Newsman James Your author of "Behind the Rising Sun" has written Martin Dies suggesting that red-blooded Americans use vigilante tactics to break up a Philadelphia meeting of the week of "Peace Now." Did though vigorously opposed to an appeasement peace, says: "We are fighting for if not the right of free speech. Those people will be forgotten—unless you live 'em by trying to break 'em up."

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Rector near Whisler were last Monday evening callers at the home Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery.

DOROTHY ALLEN

Dorothy Allen, a California brunette, will be the girl who gets a coast-to-coast, net work break on Bob Crosby's program Sunday evening at 9:30. Although Miss Allen has been singing on local stations and in San Francisco supper clubs, this will be her first appearance on a commercial airshow. Co-host Les Tremayne, whose knowledge of languages has Bob Crosby returning to his school books, is due for a surprise. This week's guest speaks Spanish fluently. "I Heard You Cried Last Night" will be Dorothy's solo on this week's session and she will join Bob in a duet on an all-time favorite, "Sometimes I'm Happy." The Pied Pipers will do their version of the nation's top comedy song, "Pistol Packin' Mama." Bob and the Pied Pipers will close with "I Don't Stand A Ghost of a Chance With You."

NO. 1 COWBOY

"Two Gun" Charlie McCarthy, who claims he's from Creeping Girdle, Nevada, will match draws on the gag holster with the nation's Number 1 cowboy star, Roy Rogers, Sunday, October 17. The program with William Gaxton and Victor Moore, Ray Noble's orchestra, will be heard at 7 p. m. from NBC's Radio City, New York. Last time they met, Charlie wasn't impressed with the Hercules feats of Mr. Rogers. Said Rogers to McCarthy, "Roy risks his life a half-dozen times in every picture." Flipped back the dummy, "I know what you mean, too. I heard him sing!" Rogers confessed to Charlie that things have changed out on the range. "Nowadays," says Roy, "cowboys have to be quick on the draw. The guy who gets his guitar out first gets to sing." The number 1 cowboy will bring with him his singing quartet, "Sons of the Pioneers."

ARMY SERVICE FORCES

The men of the Fiscal Division of the Army Service Forces, the soldiers who see that the soldier gets his pay no matter where he is, are saluted when the Army Service Forces Presents "Average American," on Saturday, October 16 at 9:15 p. m., over station WLW. Basis of the dramatization is an incident that occurred at an advance Allied air base near Kaserne Pass, last February. Following the German break-through at Faid Pass, the disarming officer and his men commandeered a truck and sped toward Allied headquarters, fighting off German

Welders Start Work On Pipeline In Pickaway County.

DOUBLE SHIFT EMPLOYED TO SPEED FINISH

MAY OPEN CITY OFFICE

Foreman Co. May Transfer Headquarters From Washington C. H.

Pipeline welders have completed their work on the 20-inch line entirely across Fayette county and have entered the western edge of Pickaway county.

C. S. Foreman Co. spokesman said Thursday that the line should be put across Pickaway county in from 45 to 60 days depending on weather conditions.

The contractors are using a double shift and operating three trench cutters in order to speed their work. It is expected that the double shift will be used across Pickaway county.

Although offices of the Foreman Co. remain in Washington C. H. at the present time it is understood the new Circleville office of the firm will be in the National Guard Armory. Pipeline crew leaders who have been working in Pickaway county for the last several weeks clearing brush from the path of the ditching outfits said they understood the Armory had been granted for use by the pipeline company. When the Foreman Co. outfit was here some weeks ago during construction of river and stream crossings, the Kreis building on East Franklin street was used. Foreman Co. workmen were in Circleville for several months during the stream crossing operations, the 24-inch crude oil crossing being completed after the pipe had been put in the ground, and crossings for the 20-inch line being finished before work on the second line got under way.

To Cross Fairfield The Foreman Co. will travel as far east as the eastern end of Fairfield county, other contractors carrying on from that point east. The Foreman-built line will connect with a conduit already placed at the east end of Fairfield.

The 20-inch line will be used exclusively for gasoline just as soon as it is completed. Contractors said recently that all petroleum products would be carried, but later information shows that gasoline only will be hauled. Later, it is possible that other petroleum products will be sent through the line. The 20-inch pipeline parallels the 24-inch crude oil line which is already carrying 300,000 barrels of crude oil daily from Texas to the east coast.

Favored By Weather
Pipeline crews have been experiencing excellent weather during their Ohio work. Instead of finding mud as they did last Spring when building the 24-inch line, the construction outfits have found the earth dry and in perfect condition for fast operation.

Many pipeline workers and their families are still in need of homes, and every day finds many more persons applying at the office of the Circleville Herald for rooms. The Herald is listing all rooms available, free of charge, if Circleville persons who have available space in their homes are willing to rent it to these people during their stay here. Persons having rooms should put all necessary information on a piece of paper, listing the number, furnished or unfurnished, conveniences, expected rent, and other data. No calls should be made over the telephone.

FIREMEN MAKE THREE RUNS TO END LEAF FIRES

Three more calls drew attention of Circleville firemen Wednesday, all being attributed to lack of rain which made grass and leaves as dry as powder.

Chief Palmer Wise drove the rural truck to the home of Henry Kaiser, near Commercial Point, at 5:40 p. m. to fight a grass fire which covered much of the Kaiser farm. No damage was reported to any buildings. On his way home the chief stopped the truck at the Island road bridge over the Scioto to fight another grass fire which had damaged fence posts at the county dog pound.

Peavines at the Winorr Canning Co. plant broke into flames at 5:45 p. m., the city trucks speeding there. Firemen said children were blamed for starting the blaze.

Rain which fell during the night ended the danger, at least for a few days, of more grass and leaf fires. The rain amounted to .15 of an inch, it being the first measurable rain in Circleville since September 25 when .04 of an inch fell. It was the largest rain since September 7 when .18 of an inch was recorded.

CHUTING FIREMEN
GRANTS PASS, Ore.—The army's parachute troops are not the only paratroopers battling the nation's foes. Firefighters were dropped by parachute to fight blazes at inaccessible points in the Siskiyou national forests. Forest service officials reported that they achieved "excellent results."

MAY OPEN CITY OFFICE

Foreman Co. May Transfer Headquarters From Washington C. H.

Pipeline welders have completed their work on the 20-inch line entirely across Fayette county and have entered the western edge of Pickaway county.

C. S. Foreman Co. spokesman said Thursday that the line should be put across Pickaway county in from 45 to 60 days depending on weather conditions.

The contractors are using a double shift and operating three trench cutters in order to speed their work. It is expected that the double shift will be used across Pickaway county.

Although offices of the Foreman Co. remain in Washington C. H. at the present time it is understood that the new Circleville office of the firm will be in the National Guard Armory. Pipeline crew leaders who have been working in Pickaway county for the last several weeks clearing brush from the path of the ditching outfits said they understood the Army had been granted for use by the pipeline company. When the Foreman Co. outfit was here some weeks ago during construction of river and stream crossings, the Kreisels building on East Franklin street was used. Foreman Co. workmen were in Circleville for several months during the stream crossing operations, the 24-inch crude oil crossing being completed after the pipe had been put in the ground, and crossings for the 20-inch line being finished before work on the second line got under way.

To Cross Fairfield
The Foreman Co. will travel as far east as the eastern end of Fairfield county, other contractors carrying on from that point east. The Foreman-built line will connect with a conduit already placed at the east end of Fairfield.

The 20-inch line will be used exclusively for gasoline just as soon as it is completed. Contractors said recently that all petroleum products would be carried, but later information shows that gasoline only will be hauled. Later, it is possible that other petroleum products will be sent through the line. The 20-inch pipeline parallels the 24-inch crude oil line which is already carrying 300,000 barrels of crude oil daily from Texas to the east coast.

Pipeline crews have been experiencing excellent weather during their Ohio work. Instead of finding mud as they did last Spring when building the 24-inch line, the construction outfits have found the earth dry and in perfect condition for fast operation.

Many pipeline workers and their families are still in need of homes, and every day finds many more persons applying at the office of the Circleville Herald for rooms. The Herald is listing all rooms available, free of charge, if Circleville persons who have available space in their homes are willing to rent it to these people during their stay here. Persons having information on a piece of paper, listing the number, furnished or unfurnished, conveniences, expected rent, and other data. No calls should be made over the telephone.

FIREMEN MAKE THREE RUNS TO END LEAF FIRES

Three more calls drew attention of Circleville firemen Wednesday, all being attributed to lack of rain which made grass and leaves as dry as powder.

Chief Talmer Wise drove the rural truck to the home of Henry Kaiser, near Commercial Point, at 5:40 p. m. to fight a grass fire which covered much of the Kaiser farm. No damage was reported to any buildings. On his way home the chief stopped the truck at the Island road bridge over the Scioto to fight another grass fire which had damaged fence posts at the county dog pound.

Peavines at the Winorr Canning Co. plant broke into flames at 5:45 p. m., the city trucks speeding there. Firemen said children were blamed for starting the blaze.

Rain which fell during the night ended the danger, at least for a few days, of more grass and leaf fires.

The rain amounted to .15 of an inch, it being the first measurable rain in Circleville since September 25 when .04 of an inch fell. It was the largest rain since September 7 when .18 of an inch was recorded.

CHUTING FIREMEN
GRANTS PASS, Ore.—The army's parachute troops are not the only paratroopers battling the nation's foes. Firefighters were dropped by parachute to fight blazes at inaccessible points in the Siskiyou national forests. Forest service officials reported that they achieved "excellent results."

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits noxious matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or empty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
